This is THE most creative locomotion system ive ever played on VR, it solves the motion sickness issue really well, and its pretty intuitive, swinging ur arm to walk in virtual reality can never go wrong, its simulating real life movement making you walk, jog and run. To top it all, you can always change your controllers in the main menu with another awesome controller that actually work pretty well in this game, the trackpad locomotion system allowing you to move all around the game with no bounderies. Simply love the options in this game.

Running, ducking, gunning, avoiding incomming bullets and rockets, is so much fun and keeps your heart pounding. A great FPS with awesome looking graphics.

The shooting is pretty satisfying, its like holding a real gun in your hand with a great feedback from the controller.

Ive played the game for almost 7 hours and still ddnt finish the last level, the arenas and the open sandbox areas keep you coming for more, with different hiding strategies and different starting points at each time until you finally make it.

In general the game is freeking awesome, worth every penny....

Hope you guys enjoy it, i know i did.. Best Game I Have Ever Played For Real Exept Skyrim & CS:GO They Are Much Better... But Still Great Game!! I definitely recommend it! A very atmospheric game with an interesting plot. What is worth noting is that this isn't mentioned anywhere in the game, but here are 3 campaigns (Imperial, Pagan, Renaissance), so You can have more of a game than You probably could thought after purchase. As for the game itself, mechanics and balance of the game are very well done.. Requires you to install quicktime, but doesn't work with current version.

So if you already have quicktime you have to uninstall it and then install QTLite to get this game to run.

If you actually need to have quicktime installed for something else to function (iTunes), QTLite will break that.

Even GFWL games gave me less problems than this game.

IF you can get it to run, it's a decent tower defense game.

But I'd take Pixeljunk Monsters, Kingdom Rush, or even Super Sanctum TD over this, since you can actually just install those and have them work.. This game is for morally bankrupt people and degenerates. How would anyone consider even playing this filth is beyond me...

10/10 would use tissues again.. Ooh, they point the cannon at you, Lord!. pretty interesting mini movie about a uk games company setup in an apartment that created amazing games that won awards

OlliOlli2 is a marked improvement over its predecessor. The controls feel noticeably more responsive and the level design is definitely better. That being said, the level design still isn't amazing. Some levels are great fun to play and others are an exercise in tedium. A lot of the levels are very cluttered: the foreground and background blend together quite often and you'll have a really good run going, only to hit one stupid thing you genuinely thought wasn't part of the map.

For me, things like that get annoying really quick. I've never been very into score attack games. Replaying the same level 30 times to get a higher score generally doesn't appeal to me. Because of that, I personally don't recommend OlliOlli2. But if you're into score attack games, it isn't the worst purchase you could make.

Oh, I really liked the music too.

. it is a very good add-on, i highly recommend it. Whatever you do don't start the engines manually as the aircraft will go mental. I think this is a great game for all ages. It shows us society from a different perspective than usual, and you could learn a lot from it.

This game reminds me of the old times when you only played those point and click games, but this game makes it a whole lot simpler.

Even though I didn't understand a single word, except for "a" and "d", the plotline is simply stunning. At the end I thought something sad happened, so I almost cried myself to sleep. The black screen with the repeating text indicates that something sad happens, and maybe something that we have lost, and will never be able to get back.

I also like the interfaces; they are amazing. In the main menu, you can click onto the credit screen and back, without it "flashing" or "clip" over like in other games, it just moves smoothly from one tab to another.

It wouldn't be the same without the multiple choices. I like that the way I play could effect the ending in so many different ways, but it should be said that I only found one ending. There are more endings to be discovered, but the developers have done a good job of hiding them!

The pictures they have selected creates a good image of the living conditions some people are living in everyday of their life. You really begin to feel for them.

To sum up; this game is not in english, and i can't understand a single word, but i began to laugh myoff when I saw the guy with the big nose and half his face cut out. I spent my hard earned 7 Norwegian Kroners on this game, and it was worth every penny. So I give this game a solid 10/10.. I find it funny and somewhat frustrating how bumping some stranger and completely stopping will make him suspicious of you, attracting attention of others, and somehow making you hunted XD The opposite also happens where even when doing something suspicious don't alert them enough or does nothing at all XD A very immersive game, easy enough to grasp and be friendly for less skilled players like me but hard enough to grind, master, and immerse me even more. Most definitely not boring because with every trial and error, there's something new to learn and pursue.. It lacks content and it gets pretty boring after you play normal mode cuz theres no other levels so ya its very boring. I love this game, pls add more enemy character bcus its getting boring when the story is very long but the enemy still same.

. I like the start scene of the game. You'll dance in front of the mirror for some time for sure. Some of the monsters have interesting behavior to deal with. And you should always turn around and dodge. If you want a workout in VR, it's good. If you don't, beware, because your shoulders will gonna hurt. Though it's not just an archery simulator. It has the nice main character and setting. Still has no story. I hope the developer will add one.. Played LIS on console and pc. Amazing in depth story. The choices you have to make really make you stop and think about what to choose and change the outcome of your story. Made me cry and laugh. 10/10
